

AutumnCare Harmony implementation wins award for The Mary Ogilvy Homes Society

AutumnCare would like to congratulate The Mary Ogilvy Homes Society, who won the award for “Implementation of the Year under 150 Beds” at the annual ITAC '08 Awards in Melbourne on Wednesday 3rd September. The Mary Ogilvy Homes Society was awarded this honour for its implementation of AutumnCare Harmony, a complete clinical care solution from first enquiry through to discharge.

The Mary Ogilvy Homes Society has successfully implemented the AutumnCare Harmony aged care management system, as a software-as-a-service model, replacing cumbersome paper files at their Aged Care Facility in Hobart. Proving legislative compliance and care standards has never been easier for them and the quality of care is improving as staff use mobile technology to bring information to the residents' bedside.

AutumnCare Harmony is a clinical care solution that enables aged care organisations to simplify their administration processes and improve the level of care that they provide to their residents. Like The Mary Ogilvy Homes Society now does, aged care organisations can also access world's best practice in clinical care via AutumnCare's user friendly software along with the integration of the Joanna Briggs Institute care bundles.

The Mary Ogilvy Homes Society's achievement this year continues the recognition received for AutumnCare and the implementation of its clinical care solutions. 2007 saw IBIS Care (NSW, Vic, SA & Tas), an AutumnCare client, winning the award for “Implementation of the Year over 150 Beds”, while AutumnCare was also awarded “ICT Company of the Year”.
